SUPERIOR COURT IN WESTERLY

Continuance Granted in Barber Appeal Case—Default in Case of Maxson vs. Barber—Chapman Cases Being Tried Jointly—Favorable Reports from Noyes M. Clark.

The superior court for Washington county, Judge Stearns, convened in special session in Westerly Monday, for the trial of local cases. The first case assigned for trial was the appeal from probate in which Maxey T. Barber et al. contest the will of Potter Barber. A representative of Attorney Edwards of Providence stated that Mr. Edwards was called into this case last week, that he was now engaged in the superior court at Providence, could not therefore be in Westerly, and asked that the case be continued. Attorney Cushing of Providence, of counsel for appellants, objected to a continuance, as there was no objection at the time of assignment that it was the first case to be tried at the Westerly session. He, too, had a case in the superior court for Providence, but had arranged to have this case tried as assigned. All the witnesses for appellants had been summoned and he did not think that the expense of the case should be unnecessarily increased. Judge Stearns granted a continuance and ordered that all expense incurred by counsel for appellants be paid by appellants before trial at the next session of the court.

The case of J. Irving Maxson against William H. Barker, upon motion of Judge John W. Sweeney, was defaulted by reason of non-appearance. This is an action to recover $725.65, a balance due for lumber and building material furnished. Judgment was given for recovery of full amount. The question of the charges of the trustee will be heard later. After listening to arguments by Attorney Barney representing the town of Westerly, and Attorney Sweeney, representing Courtland P. Chapman, the court decided that the two cases by the same plaintiff against the town should be tried jointly. The following jurors were selected to try the Chapman case: Augustus E. Herrick, Thomas Holsworth, Irving P. Arnold, Albert W. Hazard, Martin Haggerty of North Kingstown, Thomas Rodman, Charles A. Woods and William A. Leslie, South Kingstown; Isaac C. Ellis of Richmond; Wilfred B. Congdon, Narragansett; Edward A. Gordon and Moses H. Main, of Hopkinton. Judge Sweeney, counsel for Mr. Chapman, stated to the jury that there were two distinct cases to be considered, one for trespass brought against James M. Pendleton as town treasurer and the other was in the nature of an appeal from the action of the Westerly town council. Early in 1907, the council voted to improve the Watch Hill road, and made contract with the T. H. Gill company to do over $30,000 worth of work.

This work was completed before the town council had authorized the payment in accordance with law. After the contractor had completed work and the new highway was in use, the town council ordered a layout, as a substitute for the former legal action, and appointed a committee composed of James A. Welch, John T. Edmond and Albert Crandall, as disinterested persons, with authority to lay out the highway and assess the damages. This committee was appointed in November, 1908, and in April 1909, reported and the report was opposed by the town council. The committee could not come to an agreement with Mr. Chapman. The court heard the report and report and fixed Mr. Chapman's damage at $275, whereupon appeal was taken to the superior court.

Claim is made that more land was taken than was necessary, that Mr. Crandall was a member of a former town council that had acted in this matter, and was therefore not a disinterested person; that the committee did not make the layout for the public good and with as little damage to property as possible; that the committee exercised no judicial judgment and that the report was simply an echo of the Westerly town council. At the suggestion of Attorney Barney, the being assisted by Attorney Kingsley, court took a recess to give the judge and jury, accompanied by counsel for both sides, opportunity to visit the premises under consideration. The party was taken to a special trolley car to the Chapman property on the Watch Hill road.

Court reconvened at 2 o'clock and Courtland P. Chapman testified that he was born in Westerly thirty-seven years ago and resided here ever since. The land in question had been in the Chapman family for one hundred years. He said work was done on the Watch Hill road in summer of 1907. In the first piece of land taken he had maintained with a stone wall which was the eastward of present wall. The original wall, or rather the large stones of it, were taken to the stone crusher and used for macadamizing the road, and smaller ones were used in the rebuilt wall. Gravel was taken out of the hill below that was used for filling. The bottom stones of the original wall are still in place. A large tree was cut down from his property while the work on the highway was in progress. On the first stretch of land that was taken the town built a road on portions of it. That was pasture land, but he dare not use it that summer on account of the poor wall and was a financial loser of about $75. The tree cut down was valued at $5. The second stretch of land taken was also for the road; a filling was taken from this piece of this land and there is now an open gap in the wall there. Gravel was taken before the work was commenced. The third portion of the land taken was utilized by the electric road changes and the stone wall removed. Now there is a trolley and telephone poles on the premises. T. H. Gill had the contract for the work, which was done under the supervision of Thomas H. McKenzie, civil engineer, and Tristram D. Stock, president of the town council at that time. The town has paid no claim for damages.

Courtland Palmer Chapman, son of the former witness, testified in corroboration of the testimony of his father that the gravel and telephone poles were former boundary line, and the use of gravel for filling purposes. He said there were no telephone poles on his father's property before the road was widened. John Hooper Chapman, another son of the plaintiff, testified in corroboration of the evidence of his father and brother, principally in regard to removal of walls and changing of boundaries. Everett E. Whipple, town clerk of Westerly, read from the records of the town council, November 4, 1907, and showed $253.93 ordered paid to T. H. Gill, provided claims be paid or satisfied by the town. A bond of $300 to indemnify the town for damages. The record was where the Gill contract was accepted. At the conclusion of the contract Mr. Chapman filed a claim for damages, but no vote was taken ordering the payment of the claim. The records also showed that the Pawcatuck street railway was to pay $2,000 for the privilege of change in the layout of the road, and did pay that amount. The town was also a party to the contract for improving the Watch Hill road. The record was also read showing the report of the committee on the layout of the road, but no plot was submitted.

John Bristow of Narragansett, a contractor and road builder, was the next witness. He had made a special visit to the Chapman property and made examination. The knoll referred to was of marsh, valued at 1 cent a cubic yard. The wall was not a well barred stone wall and not high enough for a farmer's stone wall. Witness was an unsuccessful bidder for the Watch Hill road work, and put in bid for removal and rebuilding of the wall, the figures he could not recall, but they were possibly in possession of Engineer McKenzie. The cost of building an ordinary stone wall was from $3 to $5 a rod. The cost of shoveling a load of dirt into a cart is 25 cents, the carting being extra. The wall at the Chapman place was deficient in not having grade line.

Elmer A. Hensen, a resident of Stonington, had been civil engineer for sixteen years, and had figured the cuts and fills in connection with the work. There were 119 4-10 rods of walls removed and had an experience of thirty years in that line, his father being a contractor. It would cost $240 a rod for a stone wall with stone furnished. He estimated that 2,239 yards were taken from the Chapman knoll. At the point where the largest fill was made, it would require 250 tons of stone to cost $1 a foot and was 200 feet in length, to retain the fill on the highway. Witness had experience in buying and selling filling and he fixed the value at a ten to fifteen cent. Fifty-three rods of stone wall had been removed. Witness testified in detail of the earth and wall removed at the several sections of the road and the estimated cost. The present wall, he said, was not a well balanced wall. At 4.30 court adjourned to 9.30 Tuesday morning.

CONNECTICUT STONE.

Products of Quarries Last Year Valued at $1,125,799.

A bulletin on the stone industry and the manufacture of lime in 1908, just issued by the geological survey, states that a number of varieties of building stone are produced in Connecticut, including soapstone, serpentine (Vandantique marble), marble, granite and gneiss, diabase and sandstone. The value of stone produced in Connecticut increased from $1,052,582 in 1907 to $1,125,799 in 1908, according to the report. Of the 1908 production, $58,904 worth was granite, $473,319 worth was trap rock, $55,949 from sandstone and $2,727 limestone.

Connecticut advanced from eighteenth to seventeenth place last year among the states producing stone, and the value of her stone products was 1.71 per cent. of the total value of stone products throughout the union.

Of crushed stone Connecticut produced $88,437 short tons last year, valued at $458,350, the total being made up as follows: 370,735 tons for road making material, valued at $201,540; 206,060 tons railroad ballast, worth $100,000; 217,702 tons for concrete worth $156,340.

Connecticut is the eleventh producer of granite among the states, having sold in the rough last year $35,823 for building, $23,218 worth for monumental purposes, and $8,951 for other purposes, besides $117,242 worth dressed for building, $58,672 dressed for monumental work; $14,951 worth were made into paving blocks and there was produced $55,234 worth of curbing, $969 worth of flagging, $219,170 worth of rubble, $92,931 worth of riprap. Crushed granite for roadmaking was valued at $2,090, and for concrete $3,890, while $1,623 worth was used for other purposes. The total number of granite paving blocks produced was 892,485.

Connecticut was the second among states producing traprock, her production of $473,319 worth being used for building, paving, roadmaking, railroad ballast, concrete and other purposes.

Of the Connecticut sandstone, $56,767 worth was rough building stone and $50,648 worth was dressed building material.

Figures for the Connecticut marble industry are not given separately, in order not to disclose individual operations.

Last year Connecticut reported the production of $656 worth of limestone for riprap, $1,488 for furnace flux and $1,874 for other purposes. The quantity of furnace flux produced was 2,564 long tons.

Connecticut men were reported engaged in producing lime last year, as compared to seven operators in 1907, the state ranking twelfth among lime producers. The quantity of lime produced in Connecticut last year was $2,070 short tons, having a total value of $307,995, the average price per ton being $4.96.

Invited to Return for Sixth Year.

At the second and third quarterly conference of the South Park Methodist church, Hartford, a vote was passed extending to the Rev. Dr. Elmer A. Dent an invitation to return as pastor of the church for his sixth year.

People Must Help Themselves

IF STRUGGLE TO PREVENT SPREAD OF CONSUMPTION IS TO BE REALLY SUCCESSFUL

It is a grand work that is being done by the various societies for the study and prevention of tuberculosis, but unless the people help, at least to the extent of taking ordinary precautions to avoid contracting the disease themselves, it will be impossible ever to attain the full measure of success.

Neglect of a cough or cold often leads to consumption. The cough irritates the lungs and leaves them sore and very susceptible to tubercular germs. To break up a cold quickly the following mixture is most effective. Mix two ounces of Glycerine, a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure with eight ounces of pure Whisky. Shake well, and take a teaspoonful every four hours. The ingredients are not expensive and can be bought in any good drug store.

It is claimed by the Leach Chemical Co., of Cincinnati, who prepare the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, that this mixture will cure any cough that is curable.
